DETAILED ACTION
REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

Claims 21-40 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The present invention is directed to a method of replaying a portion of a video.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The independent claims 21, 25, 30, 35 and 38 are identifies the uniquely distinct feature for "receiving, during a plying of a video, a request to replay a portion of the video, the portion of the video being responsive to a preestablished amount of time;

Changing, responsive to the replay request and to a preestablished audio preference, an audio of the video"

US 5,400,077 by Cookson et al., discloses a system for generating a video signal in a selected one of multiple aspect ratios and audio from play of a disk on which is recorded a motion picture in only one aspect ratio. The disk includes a code indicative of the recorded aspect ratio and different audio, and the player has a default aspect ratio and audio setting which can be changed by the user. Typically, the recorded aspect ratio is 16:9, and the player can generate a video signal having any of 16:9, center cut 4:3, pan scan 4:3, and letter box aspect ratios. The player automatically generates the appropriate video signal in accordance with both its default aspect ratio setting and the disk code.

US 6,493,506 by Schoner et al., discloses an optical disk system is presented which stores disk- and user-specific settings, along with an associated method. The optical disk system includes a disk drive unit for retrieving identification data and encoded video data stored upon an optical disk, an input device for inputting user settings, and a microprocessor memory unit having a non-volatile portion for storing the identification data and the user settings. Information specific to optical disks (e.g., DVDs) and users is stored within the non-volatile portion of the microprocessor memory unit. The user settings may include, for example, spoken language, video display format, audio volume setting, and subtitle language.

None of the prior art, either singularly or in combination, fails to anticipate or render the above underlined limitations obvious. Claims 22-24, 26-29, 31-34, 36-37, 39-40 are dependent on claims 21, 25, 30, 35, 38 and therefore dependent claims also allowable.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
